

SATURDAY EVENING. NOV. 24, 18 4.

THE President says every govern. ment official except Presidents, Cabinet officers and members of the civil service commission, should be compelled to stand a competitive examination office. If his few exempts should be made subject to the test, how would squadron in the field, go through an of war, or his Secretary of the Navy, who never was at sea except as a deadhead passenger, hope to pass one on even the foundation principles of naval affairs? or how could even he expect a blue ribbon for satisfactory answers to questions on the subject of Adam questions on the subject of Adam worst that can be another smith's "Wealth of Nations." And from such a contest will be another yet all these questions would be pertione, Mr. Meredith's majority instead of nent, while those put to applicants for positions as clerks, messengers and watchmen are just the reverse. But this is the humbug age of the United who didn't vote at the late election.

JUDGING from the way some of the "reform" newspapers of New York are now talking, the recent "reform" victory in that city was by no means as conducive to reform as unsophisticated people, not only there but elsewhere. people, not only there, but elsewhere, had been led to believe. There are rascals in all parties, and where every man has the right to vote, as there are more people without, than with matetheir methods are such that they al ways manage to reap the benefits of bearing witnesses with a view to bringelections, no matter which party may win. Retrenchment and reform are incompatible with unrestricted suffrage.

THE heirs of the late Samuel Strong have, as previously stated in the GA-ZETTE'S Washington correspondence, been awarded fifty-three thousand dollars, in the prolonged attempt to col. lect which the claimant wore out his life. They were awarded that amount to be sure, but, though impoverished, not one cent of it will they receive, as of them, however, are expected here the whole of it will be divided among next week. and taken by the lawyers who were such cases usually get the larger share the platter clean.

CIVIL SERVICE examinations may obtain for government offices men capable of calculating stellar eclipses, which they will never be called upon to do, but that it does not obtain honest men the fact that vouchers to the amount of $130,000, which would have criminated several prominent people in Washington, have been stolen from the office of the 3rd Auditor of the Treasury, as stated in the GAZETTE'S Washington correspondence of yesterday's date.

As Mr. CARNEGIE says he thinks it a disgrace to die rich, he had better pay the government the amount of the fine imposed upon him for making unsound armor plates, of which he was relieved by special order of the President. He should be especially glad to do so now. as the resignation of Congressman Cummings, who had the matter in charge, will probably put a stop to the further will probably put a stop to the further ed forts armed with modern guns of investigation of his case, and thereby heavy caliber. THERE is hardly a mugwump democratic newspaper that denounced the tariff bill the country has had since 1861. The President was right in not vetoing it, though he did say it was formulated "perfidy and dishonor." Its benefits are already apparent; they of the State penitentiary, is now in the will be more so after the first of January, when all its provisions will become operative.
